

DOC Criteria

The Department must ensure that only appropriate candidates are placed into the program. Therefore, we must use our discretion in determining appropriate candidates. DOC criteria can change at any time. DOC criteria are based on what is best for the individual, the Department, the Community and the Program. Specifics can be found on the Department's website at the following link:
<https://www.pa.gov/agencies/cor.html>

The individual should have at least 7 months until their minimum.

The Department has developed a list of crimes it believes are inappropriate for Boot Camp participation. This list can be found on the DOC public website. These crimes are only considered if they are part of the current offenses.

The Department will also consider the individual's behavior while incarcerated, amenability to the program, and prior criminal history.

The individual cannot have an escape conviction or adjudication within the past 5 years.

Waivers

The prosecuting attorney may advise the court that the Commonwealth has elected to waive the defendant's ineligibility for Boot Camp if the victim was given notice and an opportunity to be heard on the issue. The court, after considering any victim input, may refuse to accept the waiver or may accept the waiver. Note: a waiver does not guarantee placement into Boot Camp. An individual with a waiver will be reviewed by the Department for appropriateness for the program.

Other Considerations

The judge has the discretion to exclude a defendant from eligibility if the judge determines that the defendant would be inappropriate for placement in a motivational boot camp. The judge must note on the sentencing order whether the defendant has been excluded from eligibility for a motivational boot camp program. If a Sentencing Order does not mention ineligibility of an individual, it is presumed they may be eligible and the DOC will review the individual for appropriateness.

Program Philosophy

The Pennsylvania Department of Corrections, Quehanna Boot Camp, will provide a secure, safe and humane alternative to standard incarceration. Our programs enforce positive life-building skills in a disciplined environment.

The Boot Camp Program

In 1991, Quehanna Boot Camp (Quehanna) began operating the Quehanna Boot Camp Program. If teammates (participants) successfully complete the six-month program, they are paroled. The Boot Camp Program accepts both male and female participants. The Boot Camp Program uses military components in concert with therapeutic techniques to address Criminal Thinking and Substance Abuse Issues. Teammates focus on discipline, work ethic, education, and therapeutic issues. There are four phases to the QBC Program. Each Phase requires more personal effort and personal responsibility. Participants that do not successfully complete the Boot Camp Program will return to an SCI to continue to serve their original sentence.

Boot Camp teammates are required to get up daily at 0515 hours. They spend their day working, in education/vocational classes, completing physical training, developing discipline through military activities, participating in cognitive behavioral programs, and preparing themselves to reenter society as a productive citizen. At 2130 hours, they prepare for lights out and retire to sleep.

If a teammate does not have a high school diploma/GED, they are placed in education classes. If they do have a diploma/GED, they are assigned to a work detail. Quehanna is one of the top state prisons in GED's awarded and Vocational Certifications earned.

All teammates are assessed for criminality, substance use, and likelihood to recidivate. Based on these assessments, inmates are assigned to cognitive programming to address each of these issues. Each teammate is assigned a Treatment Specialist that will assist them with their groups and their treatment plan.

Since its beginning, the Boot Camp has graduated over 10,600 participants. To view a short video on the Boot Camp Program: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=B9W9RnXSz1c>.
