Dear Fellow Pennsylvanians:

On behalf of the Department of State, I am pleased to present the 2010 Annual Report for the Bureau of Charitable Organizations. This report provides an overview of the Bureau, its accomplishments over the past year, as well as helpful information for consumers making charitable-giving decisions.

The Bureau's mission is to protect Pennsylvania residents by: (1) providing public disclosure of documents filed by charities and professional fundraisers, (2) providing consumer education, and (3) investigating and prosecuting complaints for reporting violations and fraudulent diversion of charitable funds.

The Bureau provides a wealth of useful information for consumers and for charities on the Department of State's website. Consumers can use the site's searchable database of registered charities to confirm whether a particular charity is registered and to research whether a charity meets their expectations for good financial management. Additionally, consumers will find information about how to file a complaint, disciplinary histories and links to other educational resources.

Charities and fundraising professionals can use the website to learn about their registration and filing responsibilities, access registration materials, and get links to state laws and outside resources.

This and previous annual reports are available on the Bureau's website. If you have any questions about state laws governing charities, or wish to report a fraudulent or deceptive solicitation practice, please contact the Bureau of Charitable Organizations at 1-800-732-0999, or at www.dos.state.pa.us/char.

Thank you for your interest in the Pennsylvania Department of State and the Bureau of Charitable Organizations.

Sincerely,

Introduction

The Department of State's Bureau of Charitable Organizations (Bureau) is responsible for the administration and enforcement of the Solicitation of Funds for Charitable Purposes Act, 10 P.S. § 162.1, et seq. (Act).

The Act requires all charitable organizations to register with the Bureau before they solicit contributions in Pennsylvania (unless they are specifically excluded from the Act or exempt from the Act's registration requirements).

The Act also requires professional solicitors to register prior to soliciting on behalf of charitable organizations in Pennsylvania and it requires professional fundraising counsels to register before providing solicitation-related services in the Commonwealth.

Other provisions in the Act include prohibited conduct by persons soliciting for charitable contributions in Pennsylvania and penalties for violating the Act.

Consumer Protection

The intent of the General Assembly is that this Act shall not merely require proper registration of charitable organizations, professional fundraisers and professional solicitors, but shall protect the citizens of this Commonwealth by requiring:

- full public disclosure of the identity of persons who solicit contributions from the public;

- the purposes for which such contributions are solicited;
- the manner in which contributions are actually used;
- consumer education about charitable concerns;
- civil and criminal penalties for deception and/or dishonest statements and conduct in the solicitation;
- reporting of contributions for or in the name of charitable purposes; and
- publicizing matters relating to fraud, deception and misrepresentation perpetrated in the name of charity.

By the Numbers

This Annual Report, covering the period of Sept. 11, 2009, through Sept. 10, 2010, details:

- the number of charitable organizations, professional fundraising counsels, and professional solicitors registered in the Commonwealth;
- the number of organizations ordered to cease and desist solicitation in Pennsylvania; and
- the number of charitable organizations contracting with professional solicitors.

It also provides an overview of the Bureau and its activities. In addition, the report provides data on individual professional solicitors and the amount of compensation they received relative to the funds raised and administrative costs for each campaign. Finally, it contains helpful charts and statistical summaries.

Basic registration and financial information for all charitable organizations registered to solicit contributions in Pennsylvania can be obtained by visiting the Bureau's Web site at www.dos.state.pa.us/char, or by calling the Bureau's toll-free number, 1-800-732-0999, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

If you are solicited by an organization not listed on the website, you should contact the Bureau to determine whether the organization has since become registered, is exempt or excluded from the Act, or is engaged in unregistered solicitation in violation of Pennsylvania law.

More detailed information about an organization can be obtained by calling the Bureau, or by reviewing registration files in person.

Overview of the Bureau

The Bureau is widely regarded as an innovative and highly effective state charity regulator. Our mission is to protect our citizens from fraud through an emphasis on

- Accountability and disclosure, and
- Investigation and enforcement.

Three Divisions

The Bureau consists of three divisions:

- Registration and Compliance,
- Investigations, and
- Audits.

The Bureau's key objective is to provide donors with basic information that helps them in making wise charitable-giving decisions.

Transparent, Accountable

The Bureau also protects our citizens from fraud and abuse by ensuring that the fundraising activities of charitable organizations soliciting contributions in the Commonwealth are transparent and accountable.

The Bureau fulfills these duties by:

- Implementing and overseeing the registration requirements of the Act;
- Investigating allegations of misconduct by charitable organizations and professional fundraisers; and
- Enforcing violations through administrative actions that are initiated by the Bureau's prosecuting attorney.

Division of Registration and Compliance

The Bureau's Division of Registration and Compliance oversees the process by which charitable organizations register with the Commonwealth.

Registration

Since the 2009 Annual Report to the General Assembly, the Bureau has processed more than 16,200 charitable registration documents for more than 11,200 charities. During that period, the Bureau processed checks totaling more than $2.1 million.

The Division of Registration and Compliance also monitors professional solicitors and professional fundraising counsels who contract with charitable organizations that solicit contributions. Solicitors and fundraising counsels are required to provide documentation relating to their activities on behalf of charitable organizations.

Since the 2009 Annual Report to the General Assembly, the Bureau reviewed nearly 4,000 professional fundraiser documents filed by more than 422 professional solicitors and professional fundraising counsels.

Institutions of purely public charity are those organizations that are receiving or claiming exemption from real property and/or sales tax and are not otherwise required to register pursuant to the Solicitation Act. During this reporting period, the Bureau received registration information for more than 2,500 of these organizations.

Outreach and Education

Equally important, the Division of Registration and Compliance engages in outreach and education. The Bureau recognizes that there are organizations that may not be aware of the requirements of the Act and/or may require assistance with the registration process. Through proactive outreach and education, this Division is available to assist charitable organizations come into compliance with the Act.

Finally, the Bureau is also the repository for registration information for Institutions of Purely Public Charity, pursuant to the Institutions of Purely Public Charity Act 10 P.S. § 371, et seq.

The Division processed more than 16,200 charitable registration documents for more than 11,200 charities.

Divisions of Investigations and Audits

The Bureau's Divisions of Investigations and Audits pursue those organizations that, despite the Bureau's best efforts, fail to come into compliance with the registration requirements of the Act, or that otherwise engage in fraud or other violations of the Act.

The Bureau's enforcement actions led to 52 Consent Agreements and Adjudications, ordering payment of fines in the total amount of $197,500.

Since 1998, the year the Bureau entered into its first consent agreement, the Bureau's actions have resulted in 206 Consent Agreements and Adjudications, for a total of $1,372,750 in fines.

Law Enforcement Partnerships

In order to share information, leverage resources and increase investigatory efficiency, the Divisions of Investigations and Audits work closely with federal, state and local law enforcement, i.e., local District Attorneys, State Attorneys General, Internal Revenue Service, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Federal Trade Commission, and the Department of Justice.

Bureau representatives are also active members of the National Association of State Charities Officials (NASCO), which is the national association for state offices charged with oversight of charitable organizations and professional fundraisers in the United States. Bureau representatives are active members of the board, various NASCO committees and regularly participate as presenters at NASCO's annual conference.

Since 1998, the Bureau's actions have resulted in 206 Consent Agreements and Adjudications, for a total of $1,372,750 in fines.

Public Information, Customer Service and Proactive Outreach

The Bureau further fosters accountability by charitable organizations by acting as an informational resource for the general public. The Bureau's Web site provides a wealth of information, as well as an online database that enables consumers to research individual charities.

The Bureau strives to provide excellent customer service to our citizens by timely responding to the high volume of public inquiries about charitable organizations.

During this reporting period, the Bureau fielded more than 33,300 telephone inquiries and responded to almost 700 written requests for information.

Through outreach, the Bureau seeks to increase compliance by educating the public and the nonprofit sector on the Act's requirements. Representatives from the Bureau make frequent appearances at workshops, seminars, expositions, and other forums at which they share their knowledge and expertise and publicize the work of the Bureau.

Registration Information

The number of organizations registered with the Bureau fluctuates throughout the year based upon the renewal dates of the individual organizations. Typically, the high point of the reporting year is reached during the month of May. This year, the total number of active registrants reached a record level of 11,250 charitable organizations. Similarly, during this reporting period, the number of registered professional fundraisers reached a high of 431. The Bureau anticipates that its increased outreach and education efforts will result in even higher numbers in 2011.

The total number of active registrants reached a record level of 11,250 charitable organizations.

Charitable Organizations

As of Sept. 10, 2010, there were 11,218 charitable organizations registered. Charitable organizations that are soliciting charitable contributions in Pennsylvania and are not otherwise excluded or exempt under the Act must file with the Bureau: (1) annual registration statements, (2) IRS 990 federal informational returns, and (3) financial statements. Depending on the amount of their annual gross contributions, those financial statements may have to be compiled, reviewed or audited.¹ Charitable organizations registering for the first time must also file copies of, (1) their organizational charters, (2) bylaws and (3) IRS tax-exempt acknowledgement letters.

The Act defines "solicitation" as any direct or indirect request for a contribution, whether oral or written, where a representation is made that the contribution will be used for a charitable purpose. This includes any communications medium (electronic, Web sites, telephone, radio, television, ads, chances, magazines, tickets or other items of value).

A "contribution" is defined in the Act as any promise, grant, or pledge of money, property or other item in response to a solicitation. This includes the promise to pay for a performance, event, good or service.

While the Act generally requires organizations to register with the Bureau prior to soliciting charitable contributions, certain organizations are specifically and totally excluded from the Act. For example, bona fide religious institutions and law enforcement organizations that meet certain criteria are typically excluded from the Act's requirements.

Educational institutions, hospitals, veterans' organizations, volunteer firemen organizations, ambulance associations, rescue squad associations, public nonprofit library organizations, senior citizen centers, nursing homes and parent-teacher associations are typically exempt from the Act's registration requirements (provided they meet the applicable criteria set forth in the Act).

Charitable organizations that receive annual contributions of $25,000 or less and do not compensate any person to conduct fundraising activities are also exempt from the Act's registration requirements. These organizations are still required to comply with all other provisions of the Act, including, but not limited to, keeping true and accurate records of their fiscal activities.

¹ Charitable organizations that receive annual contributions of $300,000 must have an audit of their financial statements performed by an independent, certified or public accountant. Charitable organizations that receive annual contributions of at least $100,000, but less than $300,000, must have a review (but may submit an audit) of their financial statements performed by an independent, certified or public accountant. Charitable organizations that receive annual contributions of at least $50,000, but less than $100,000, must have a compilation (but may submit a review or audit) of their financial statements performed by an independent, certified or public accountant. A compilation, audit or review is optional for any charitable organization that receives annual contributions of less than $50,000. A charitable organization that receives annual contributions of less than $50,000 but more than $25,000 must provide internally prepared financial statements (but may submit an audit, review, or compilation) to the Bureau as part of its annual registration process.

Professional Solicitors

As of Sept. 10, 2010, there were 98 professional solicitors registered with the Bureau. Professional solicitors contract with charitable organizations to solicit direct monetary contributions and/or indirect contributions in the form of payment for goods, services, or admissions to fundraising events for charitable purposes. Basically, solicitors raise funds on behalf of charitable organizations and are permitted to have temporary (no more than five days) custody of those funds.

Professional solicitors must file annual registration statements and copies of their contracts with charitable organizations. In addition, they are required to secure a bond, file a solicitation notice with each contract and, as set forth in the next section, submit campaign financial reports.

Campaign Financial Reports

Professional solicitors must file campaign financial reports for each solicitation campaign they conduct in Pennsylvania. These reports must be filed within 90 days of the campaign's completion or on the anniversary of any campaign lasting more than one year. The reports must list the total contributions raised during the campaign, the campaign's total expenses, and the amount of the total contributions the charitable organization actually received. This information is summarized in Appendices A and B of this report.

Professional Fundraising Counsels

As of Sept. 10, 2009, there were 324 professional fundraising counsels registered with the Bureau. Professional fundraising counsels are retained by charitable organizations to plan, manage, advise, consult or prepare solicitation materials. Unlike professional solicitors, professional fundraising counsels do not solicit contributions or have custody of contributions.

Professional fundraising counsels must file annual registration statements and copies of their contracts with charitable organizations no less than ten working days prior to conducting solicitation campaigns, events, or providing other services to charitable organizations.

Cease and Desist Orders

The Bureau has issued 67 Cease and Desist Orders since the last Annual Report, and there are 292 Orders in effect. Generally speaking, Cease and Desist Orders are only issued after organizations have been notified of the registration requirement and failed to cooperate with the Bureau by becoming properly registered or by providing proof of exemption or exclusion from the requirements of registration. A list of all Cease and Desist Orders in effect is available on the Bureau's Web site.

General Information and Questions

Citizens who have any questions about the Solicitation of Funds for Charitable Purpose Act, or need information concerning solicitations by charitable organizations, solicitors, or fundraising counsels can call the Bureau at 1-800-732-0999. Citizens can also write to the Bureau at 207 North Office Building, Harrisburg, PA 17120, or send an email to: ST-CHARITY@state.pa.us.

During this reporting period, the bureau has issued 67 Cease and Desist Orders, and there are 292 Orders in effect.

Statistical Data for Registered Charitable Organizations and Professional Solicitors

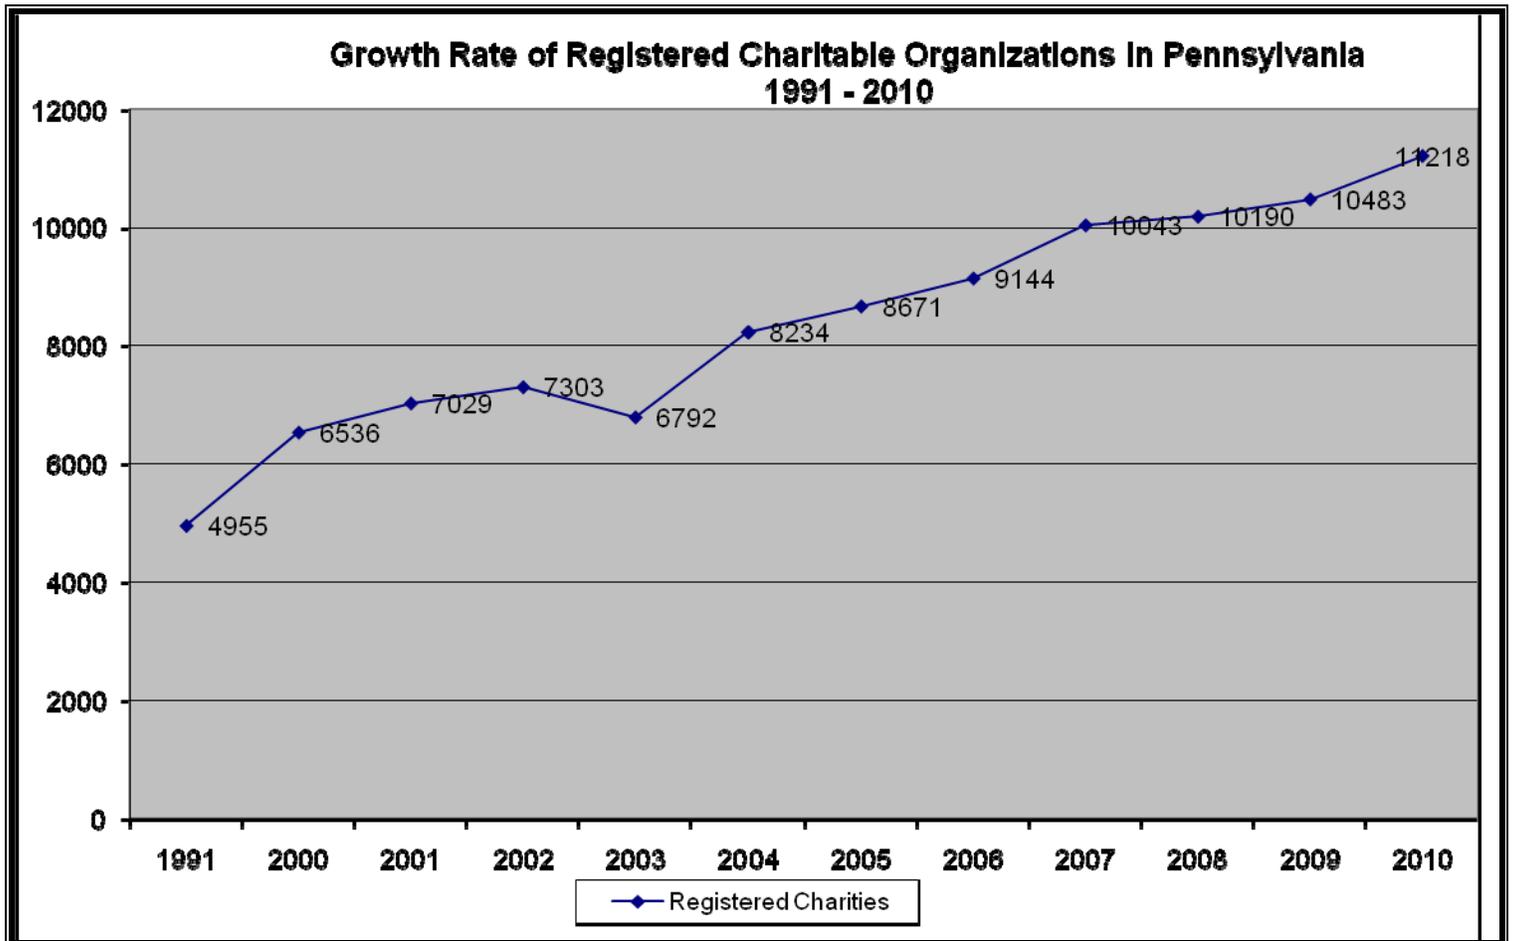

The 2010 Annual Report contains various statistical data for charitable organizations, professional fundraising counsels, and professional solicitors registered in Pennsylvania. It is based upon data submitted by the organizations to the Bureau.

The increase in the number of registered charitable organizations is due, in large part, to the Bureau's ongoing efforts to educate the charitable sector as to the importance of compliance with the registration requirements. As demonstrated by the data presented in the following pages, the rate of registrations for charitable organizations, professional fundraising counsels and professional solicitors continues to increase.

Growth Rate of Registered Charitable Organizations in Pennsylvania

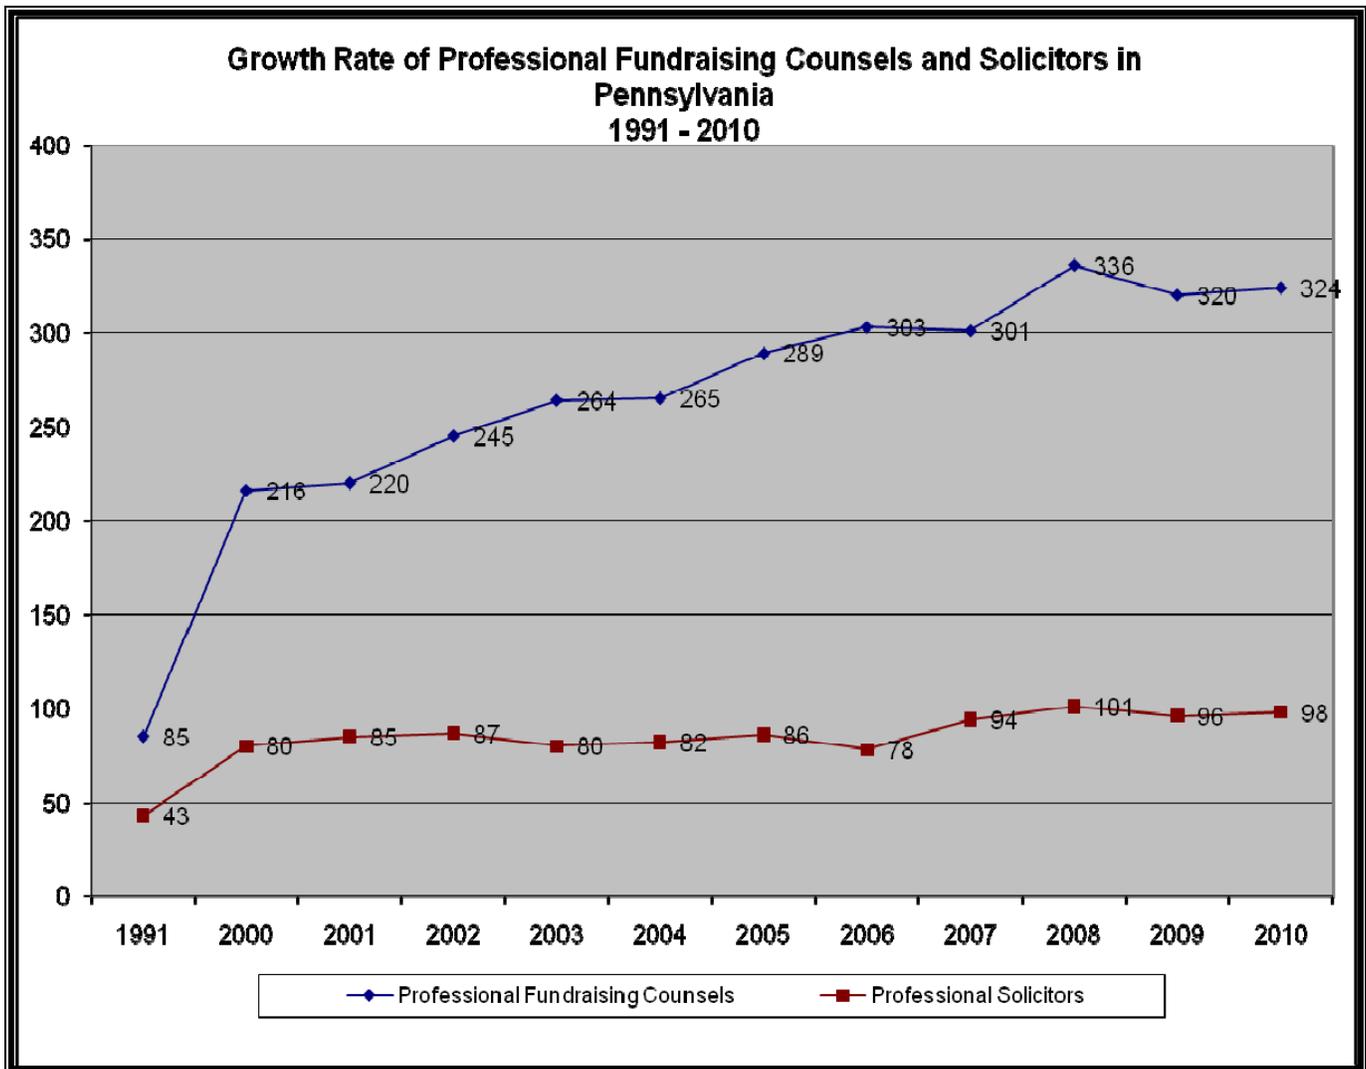

Since 1991 (the year the current version of the Act was enacted), the rate of registrations for charitable organizations has more than doubled, increasing from 4,955 to 11,218. Of notable importance, during this reporting period the number of registered charitable organizations reached a record high of 11,250. Based on these historical trends, charitable registrations are expected to continue to increase.

Given the rising trend in charitable registrations, the Department will need to review the necessary resources to accommodate future registrations. This may require technological advances, such as electronic filing of documents. Some states that have experienced increases in charitable registrations are in the early stages of implementing electronic filing, including New York, Michigan and California. Electronic filing has been mandatory in Colorado since 2002.

Growth Rate of Registered Fundraising Counsels and Solicitors in Pennsylvania

Since 1991, professional fundraising counsels' registrations have more than tripled, increasing from 85 to 324, while professional solicitors similarly increased from 43 to 98. During this reporting period the total combined number of registered professional fundraisers reached a high of 431.

During this reporting period the total combined number of registered professional fundraisers was 431.

This year's report illustrates the numbers of charitable organizations based upon their state of origin. Notably, 8,425 (75 percent) of the 11,218 registered charitable organizations are located in Pennsylvania, representing the majority of the charitable organizations registered to solicit charitable contributions in Pennsylvania.

Largest and Smallest Charities Dominate Registration Pool

Approximately one-third of all charitable organizations registered in Pennsylvania receive contributions of $49,999 or less, and another one-third of the registration pool is charities with $500,000 or more of contributions.

Average Amounts Paid to Professional Solicitors

Finally, this report summarizes the average amount paid to professional solicitors for solicitation campaigns in relation to the total funds raised. This information shows how much charitable organizations spend on costs associated with solicitation campaigns conducted by professional solicitors.

The Pennsylvania Association of Nonprofit Organizations (PANO) recognizes a standard for the appropriate level of fundraising costs for charitable organizations:

“On average, over a five-year period, a nonprofit should realize revenue from fundraising and other development activities that are at least three times the amount spent on conducting them.” In other words, according to PANO, charitable organizations should generally spend no more than 33⅓ percent of their contributions on the costs to raise those contributions.

During the past year, a total of 81 professional solicitors filed 552 Campaign Financial Reports for 383 charitable organizations. The summary of those Campaign Financial Reports is attached to this report as Appendix A (sorted by professional solicitor) and Appendix B (sorted by charity).

It is important to note that the “total expenses” identified in the summary includes professional fees, cost reimbursements and any other expenses the solicitor and the charity may have agreed upon.

Likewise, it is important to understand that an organization may engage in fundraising activities in addition to those performed by its professional solicitor(s) and that its overall fundraising expenses in relation to total funds raised may be less than the percentage paid to a professional solicitor.

Moreover, simple comparisons between different organizations cannot always be made. For example, data for a mental health organization with a fully-staffed professional office of salaried employees and large fixed capital assets (buildings, office equipment, etc.) cannot readily be compared with a local Boy Scouts Council, primarily operated by volunteers, with no physical building. Variables such as geographic location, size of the organization, and donor population will affect comparisons.

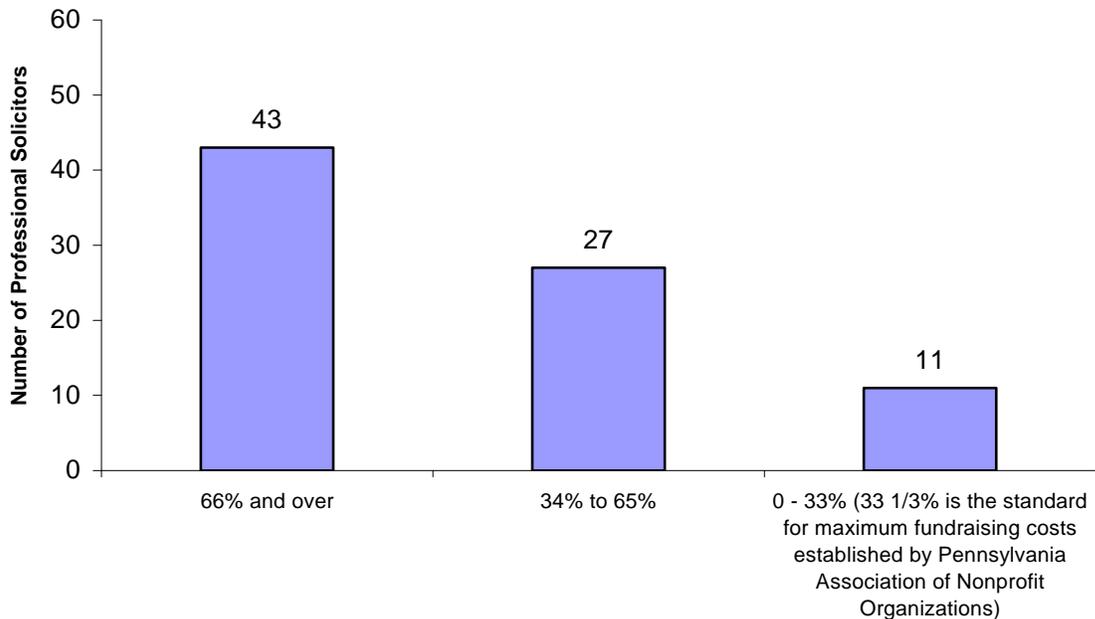

Finally, many organizations, especially those that are new, may have high fundraising expenses because they are small and/or espouse views that have not been traditionally supported by the public. If such organizations use professional solicitors or fundraising counsels without the benefit of volunteer support, they may also incur large fundraising costs to solicit donations and/or publicize their cause.

In summary, during this reporting period, the 81 professional solicitors soliciting on behalf of the 383 charities raised a total of $907,689,105. Of this amount, $394,772,180 - or 43.5 percent - ended up with the charities. This means that, on average, of every dollar that a professional solicitor raised for a charity during this period, 56.5 cents went to the professional solicitor.

Average Percentage of Total Contributions Received by Professional Solicitors

Notably, 11 of the 81 of the professional solicitors, or 13.6 percent, who filed Campaign Financial Reports were paid less than 33 percent of the total contributions raised. This is in keeping with the PANO standard that charitable organizations should generally spend no more than 33⅓ percent of their contributions on the costs to raise those contributions. The remaining 70 of the professional solicitors, or 86.4 percent, do not appear to fall within the standard.

From the perspective of the 383 charitable organizations that reported to have used the services of a professional solicitor, 11 percent or 42 charities paid solicitors 33 percent or less of the total contributions raised. This is in keeping with the PANO standard that charitable organizations should generally spend no more than 33⅓ percent of their contributions on the costs to raise those contributions. The remaining 89 percent, totaling 341 organizations, of the charitable organizations do not appear to fall within the standard.
