Background

Lead exposure can have serious health consequences, especially for children and pregnant women. Lead is ubiquitous in the environment, and unfortunately, we cannot see, taste or smell it. Lead is much more harmful to children and during pregnancy because it can affect a child's developing nervous system and brain.

On September 12, 2024, Stanley Jr. Kids Wheelbarrow and 7-piece Garden Sets were recalled because the painted long hoe and rake of the recalled garden set contain levels of lead that exceed the federal lead paint ban, posing a lead poisoning hazard to children.

Approximately 459,200 sets were sold in the U.S. exclusively at Costco stores nationwide and online at www.costco.com from February 2024 through June 2024 for about $35.

This recall involves the long hoe and rake in the Stanley Jr. Kids Wheelbarrow and 7-piece Garden Set, model number 1662178. The Stanley Jr. Kids Wheelbarrow and 7-piece Garden Set includes a wheelbarrow, apron, gloves, rake, hoe, and hand tools. Only the long hoe and rake in the set are included in this recall.

Recommendations associated with this recall

- Review recall information including pictures of the specific item being recalled. This information is available on the CPSC's website.
- Health care providers should raise awareness about the recalled products among parents.
- Encourage parents to immediately stop using the recalled products and contact Red Toolbox by email at CS@recall-rtb.com, or online at <https://www.recall-rtb.com/> or <https://red-toolbox.com> and click "Recall Information" at the bottom of the page for more information.
- Consider blood lead testing for children or those who are pregnant or lactating if they are exposed to these and other lead sources.
- Children enrolled in Medicaid are required to get tested for lead at ages 12 and 24 months or age 24–72 months if they have no record of ever being tested. All children should be tested if they are at risk for lead exposure, which includes children who live or spend time in a house or building built before 1978, are from low-income households, are immigrants, refugees, or recently adopted from lower income countries, or live or spend time with someone who works with lead or has hobbies that expose them to lead.

- Laboratories and health care providers are required to report all blood lead test results, regardless of the lead level, for persons under 16 years of age to DOH through Pennsylvania's electronic disease surveillance system, PA-NEDSS.
