Mission Statement

We believe public health is an action and data are for everyone. Our research and evaluation work aims to reduce community health disparities. Through meaningful collaboration, we conduct accessible and equitable public health research and evaluation so every community can thrive.

Evaluation cannot be done in isolation. Community members and organizations that have something to gain or lose from what will be learned from an evaluation are vital to our process. Our commitment to improving the well-being of communities whose health is disproportionately impacted by environmental, social, and economic factors, means we value community partnership and seek opportunities for shared ownership.
