PA's Hands-Free Law: Effective June 2025

Distracted Driving

In 2010, Paul Miller Jr. was tragically killed when a tractor-trailer driver became distracted while reaching for their phone and collided with Paul.

Pennsylvania's new distracted driving law, known as Paul Miller's Law, goes into effect in June 2025. This law prohibits the use of hand-held mobile devices while behind the wheel – including while stopped at red light.

Pennsylvania's new distracted driving law, known as Paul Miller's law, will go into effect in June 2025. This law prohibits drivers from using any mobile device while driving. That includes taking a quick scroll break at a red light or when stuck in traffic! Remember, anything that causes you to take your full attention away from driving is considered distracted driving. Be safe, PA.

Texting or scrolling while driving? Deadly & illegal.

PA's Hands-Free Law: Effective June 2025

Paul Miller was killed in 2010 because of a driver who couldn't wait to check their phone.

Starting June 2025, holding your phone behind the wheel—even at a red light—is illegal.

This law is for him.
