EARL L. POOLE AND MAURICE BROUN: BERKS COUNTY'S ORIGINAL ALPHA BIRDERS

Wed, Feb. 11 at 6:30 p.m.

The Reading Public Museum's ornithologist and artist Earl L. Poole and Hawk Mountain Sanctuary's first curator Maurice Broun had a decades-long friendship - and rivalry - that began in the 1934 founding of the sanctuary and ended with Poole's death in 1972. Through their journal entries and published works along with contemporary photographs, Bill Uhrich examines the tensions between the two birders over Poole's groundbreaking research into the hawk migration along the Kittatinny Ridge during the shooting era at Hawk Mountain from 1929 to 1933 and Broun's observations during the first season at the sanctuary in the fall of 1934.

WOODCOCK AND WATERFOWL

Sat, Mar. 7 at 4:30 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.

Lancaster County Bird Club Board Member, John Lahr, will lead a late afternoon and evening field trip to Middle Creek for woodcock and waterfowl. The main objective of this trip will be to hear and/or view the courtship display of the American Woodcock. The group will visit an area where there is an opportunity to hear and view this unique event. Some time before dusk will be spent scanning the lake and surrounding habitat for waterfowl and other birds that might be in the area. Winter visitors may include Short-eared Owls and Northern Harriers. Meet at the Visitors Center parking area at 4:30 p.m. Visitors Center facilities are only available until 4 p.m., portable toilets are also available onsite.

CRADLE OF CONSERVATION: AN ENVIRONMENTAL HISTORY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Wed, Mar. 11 at 6:30 p.m.

From the origins of "Penn's Woods" to the evolution of working landscapes and conservation practices, this event will provide an engaging overview of Pennsylvania's environmental history. The speaker will explore the state's "working landscapes" and the people, places, and policies that connect the problems of the past to today's pressing issues. The talk will especially highlight the origins of Middle Creek Wildlife Management Area and its connection to the state's conservation and environmental movements.

CERULEAN WARBLER HABITAT IN THE KITTATINNY RIDGE

Wed, Apr. 8 at 6:30 p.m.

Cerulean Warblers, once widespread in the eastern U.S., have declined by about 70% since 1966 due to habitat loss and degradation. The Kittatinny Ridge Conservation Landscape (KRCL) provides critical breeding habitat, and targeted forest management—such as shelterwood harvests, canopy gap creation, and crop tree release—has been implemented to restore the structural diversity these birds need. As a designated climate refugia, the ridge also helps buffer biodiversity from the impacts of climate change, supporting long-term resilience for forest-dwelling species

OUTDOOR EXPLORER SERIES

PRESCRIBED FIRE FESTIVAL

Sat, Apr. 18 at 10:00 a.m. (Rain Date: Apr. 25)

Discover the benefits of prescribed fire and get to watch one live! Habitat managers will be on hand to answer questions and to display the equipment that enables the safe use of fire as a natural management tool for forests and fields. Guided walks to other burn units and a food truck will be available! This event has a rain date, so keep an eye out for last minute event information. Call the Middle Creek Visitors Center for more information.

SNOWSHOE HARES IN PENNSYLVANIA

Wed, Dec. 9 at 6:30 p.m.

Snowshoe hares are a truly unique and elusive wildlife resource in Pennsylvania. One of about 20 species in the entire world that transitions to white in winter to camouflage with snow, the snowshoe hare appears to be in decline in Pennsylvania. The Game Commission is working to better understand how they can benefit this species through management and conservation.
