Introduction

The Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission administers a program of historical markers to capture the stories of people, places, events, and innovations that have affected the lives of Pennsylvanians over the centuries. The program began with bronze plaques in 1914 and the iconic blue and yellow roadside markers used today were introduced in 1946. The program has evolved from a largely staff-driven process, to accepting suggestions from historical societies to today’s fully public-driven program.

PHMC is committed to representing and reflecting the experiences of the people and communities it serves. As a public-driven program, PHMC supports communities in recognizing the importance of their history through the Pennsylvania Historical Marker Program.

Guidelines for the Pennsylvania Historical Marker Nominations includes information about the nomination process, the Criteria for Approval, a worksheet to help prepare your nomination for submission using PA-SHARE, and helpful resources and general recommendations for crafting a well-written nomination.

Please review all information before submitting a final nomination.

Using PA-SHARE to Submit a Historical Marker Nomination

PA-SHARE, Pennsylvania's State Historic & Archaeological Resource Exchange, was launched in February 2021 as the commonwealth's new online data management and cultural resources GIS tool. It is now the primary interface for all program areas within the PA SHPO, including the historical marker program.

The final marker nomination must be submitted in PA-SHARE. No paper copies or emailed copies will be accepted. We have provided worksheets to help you develop your nomination. We strongly recommend that you complete and assemble your information before working in PA-SHARE.

If you are new to the process, follow the steps below:

1. You must have a Keystone Login before accessing PA-SHARE. Follow these instructions to register: <https://www.pa.gov/en/agencies/phmc/pa-share/login-credentials.html>
2. Access PA-SHARE from the PHMC website: <share.phmc.pa.gov/pashare/landing>.
3. Register for a free Basic account to submit a Historical Marker Nomination.

For specific guidance on using PA-SHARE to submit a Historical Marker Nomination, please review the step-by-step instructions in the PA-SHARE tutorial Submitting a New Marker Nomination in PA-SHARE.

Once you have completed your nomination in PA-SHARE, you, and anyone you have included as a project contact, will receive automated emails from PA SHPO staff about your nomination's status. You will be notified:

- when your submission was received
- when your submission was accepted as a project
- when PA SHPO has reviewed your nomination
- when PA SHPO has commented on your nomination
- if PA SHPO requires more information
- when PA SHPO closes the nomination project

These emails will provide you with instructions for accessing your submission, project, and PA SHPO correspondence.

Contact the PA-SHARE Help Desk at pashare@pa.gov with any technical questions about signing into PA-SHARE, submitting a marker nomination, or accessing a project.

Criteria for Approval of State Historical Markers

The following criteria for approving state historical markers was adopted by Resolution of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission (PHMC) in September 2020.

It is very important that the Criteria for Approval provided be carefully read and thoroughly understood. When reviewing nominations, the marker panel makes an informed decision using these criteria as well as the quality of the submitted nomination.

- A. The nomination is clear and organized and includes thorough documentation (with selected photocopies and bibliographies from reliable primary and secondary sources) and verification of the facts claimed.
- B. The person, place, event, organization, or innovation to be marked had a significant impact on its times, and has statewide and/or national, rather than local or regional, historical significance. The significance of the subject, particularly for continuing events and organizations, must be historically established rather than of contemporary interest. PHMC recognizes that continuing scholarship may help validate the subject's impact on its times or its significance from a more recent historical perspective.
- C. The subject to be marked has a substantial connection to Pennsylvania.
- D. An Historical Marker cannot be approved for a living person. With the exception of Pennsylvania governors and U.S. presidents, subjects must have been deceased for a minimum of five (5) years. The significance of an individual's accomplishments must have had a measurable impact on history and sufficient time has elapsed to evaluate that impact based on credible documentation.
- E. Nominations for geographical, topographical, or natural features may be referred to an appropriate federal, state, or local agency.
- F. People, places, events, and innovations already marked with existing monuments or markers may receive less favorable consideration for an Historical Marker.
- G. Nominated subjects reviewed and disapproved by the Commission three times in succession are not eligible for review panel consideration for a period of three years.
- H. Governors of Pennsylvania are approved as the subject of an Historical Marker upon nomination (subject to the criterion in subsection D herein).
- I. Historic sites or properties owned by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission are approved as the subject of an Historical Marker upon nomination.

PA SHPO
Guidelines for Pennsylvania Historical Marker Nominations

- J. Places listed on the National Register of Historic Places and/or recognized as National Historic Landmarks or United Nations World Heritage Sites may be considered for an Historical Marker. These places will not be summarily approved by PHMC for designation because the approval criteria for those designations are different. Nominations for these places are subject to all these Criteria.
- K. Places of worship and cemeteries/burial places generally will not be approved unless the nomination demonstrates that the subject meets criteria in subsections B and J.

Understanding the Nomination, Evaluation, & Approval Process

The entire nomination process can be broken down into three parts: submitting a nomination; evaluation by the Marker Review Panel; and the Commission's vote for approval. Each part is further explained below.

Nomination

Any individual or group may nominate a subject for a historical marker. Nominators can only submit one nomination per cycle. Further instructions and guidelines are included in the next section.

Nominators must complete a pre-application to determine whether the marker subject will meet the PHMC historical marker criteria and would be considered a strong candidate for the program. Marker staff will read the pre-applications and provide recommendations for improvement for the final nomination.

The timeline for nominating is as follows:

- Program opens for pre-applications on February 5.
- Pre-applications must be submitted by email to ra-phmarkers@pa.gov by 11:59pm on April 1.
- Final nominations must be submitted in PA-SHARE by 11:59pm on June 1.
- Marker Review Panel meeting(s) in August.
- Commission meeting in December.
- Nominators notified end of December/early January.

Evaluation

Three separate bodies of people are involved in the evaluation process. The evaluation rubric used by these bodies is available for applicants to review at the end of this document.

Staff Review Committee

Consists of six to seven (6-7) PHMC staff. The Committee includes one staff member from each bureau, the Historical Marker Coordinator, PA SHPO Incentives Manager, and the PHMC Editor. The Marker Text Historian may also be involved, if available. The staff from the other bureaus have a generalized knowledge of Pennsylvania history and are familiar with the specializations of other PHMC staff. They may choose to ask other staff for input who have specialized knowledge about the nomination subject.

The Committee evaluates each nomination for compliance with PHMC criteria using the evaluation rubric. The nominations are reviewed independently and separately from the Marker Review Panel. Staff evaluations and comments are provided to the Panel only after the Panel has completed their own evaluations.

PA SHPO
Guidelines for Pennsylvania Historical Marker Nominations

Marker Review Panel

Consists of five (5) external individuals with expertise or experience in history, architecture, archaeology, museum work, or other related fields. Panel members evaluate each nomination independently for compliance with PHMC criteria using the evaluation rubric and discuss results of their and the Staff Committee's evaluations at their annual review meeting, usually in August, where they reach a consensus on recommendations to provide to the Commission. Marker staff totals the scores and drafts a report of the Panel's recommendations for the Commission.

Commission

Governor-appointed body of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. The Commission reviews the Panel's recommendations and votes on approval of the nominations at their September meeting.

Approval

There are three (3) possible outcomes from the evaluation process: approved, not approved, and recommended for resubmission.

Approved

If your nomination is approved, you will receive a notification letter signed by the PHMC Executive Director. You will also receive several forms and further instruction about dedicating the marker.

Not Approved

If your nomination is not approved, you will receive an email from Marker staff. If the Panel and Commission believe the subject is not appropriate for a PHMC marker, Marker staff will provide information to pursue a local marker.

Please note that all local markers must be distinguishable in color and design from official PHMC markers.

Resubmission

If the Panel and Commission believe the nomination could be improved for resubmission, detailed comments and recommendations will be provided via email from Marker staff.

You may submit revised nominations for the same subject three (3) years in succession. Any nomination that is rejected three (3) years in succession may not be submitted again for another five (5) years. PHMC staff are available to work with you to revise or strengthen your nomination. A resubmission would benefit by taking advantage of the pre-application and/or preliminary review process in the next round.

Considerations for Historical Marker Subjects

PHMC encourages nominations that will help to enhance the Marker Program and the public's knowledge of history. This includes aspects of Pennsylvania history inadequately represented in the marker program, additional contexts to markers that already exist, and counties with fewer markers.

The Pennsylvania Historical Marker Program is not intended as a memorial program. A locally erected marker or monument may be more appropriate.

General Questions

When preparing the nomination for a person, place, event, innovation, or other subject, consider how the subject is of statewide or national significance. Consider the following questions and address them as is appropriate:

- What was the cause and effect?
- What changes or consequences occurred and why?
- How did the subject influence the course of events on a statewide or national level?
- What and how widespread was the impact on a statewide or national level?
- What was the subject's lasting influence in history?
- What role did the subject play in the cultural, societal, and/or political spheres of its time?
- What factors contributed to the subject's development?

In addition to these questions, consider the more specific points below by the type of subject:

Nominating a Person

Consider what innovations the individual made and whether their impact was of statewide, national, or international importance. The individual must have a strong association with Pennsylvania. An individual who was born or worked briefly in Pennsylvania but lived most of their life and made their impact elsewhere does not have a strong enough connection to the state to be a good candidate.

A good candidate will:

- have spent their formative years in the Commonwealth (i.e., their childhood, schooling, or most significant part of their career)
 - achieved national or statewide recognition
 - retained strong ties to Pennsylvania if they left
- Example: Allan Jaffe, born and raised in Pottsville, where he studied music and remained connected with the state throughout his music career.

If the individual had a limited connection to Pennsylvania BUT was responsible for something significant in or to Pennsylvania, consider instead nominating the innovation, event, or work of significance.

PA SHPO
Guidelines for Pennsylvania Historical Marker Nominations

- Example: Salk Polio Vaccine developed in Pittsburgh rather than Jonas Salk.

Nominating an Innovation

An innovation may have a greater impact than the individual(s) involved in creating it.

- How did this innovation change, improve, or revolutionize life, society, or an industry?
 - Who was involved in its creation?
 - What is the connection to Pennsylvania (i.e. where was it invented/manufactured/etc)?
 - What makes this innovation different from others before it or during its time?
 - Did it lead to other innovations?
- Example: Densmore Tank Cars, early functional railway oil tank car invented and constructed in Venango County.

Nominating a Place

To be considered for a marker, a building must be more than an example of a particular architectural style. Consider any noteworthy events or important people connected to the location, or its greater purpose to the state or nation. A location's connection to a particular individual, event, or innovation may be more significant than the location itself, and therefore that connection may be a better subject to nominate.

- What social movement or changes in policy or practice happened there?
 - How was it important to the state or nation?
 - If the site is on the National Register of Historic Places or a UNESCO site, you must be able to demonstrate its importance to the state or nation as a whole, not local or regional importance. Refer to Section 8 of the National Register application to confirm the level of significance.
 - Is it an exemplary work of a notable architect?
- Example: The Haines Shoe House, marketing strategy of Haines to promote his shoe business, notable example mid-20th century programmatic architecture, and representation of the nation's shift to car travel.

Nominating an Event

Consider the statewide or national impact of the event, those involved, and what led up to the event.

- What social, political, environmental, or other movement or changes in policy or practice happened at or because of the event?
 - How does the event fit into the context of a larger movement or philosophy?
 - Was there a purpose or goal?
 - Who was involved and why were they there?
 - What was the result?
- Example: Marshalls Creek Explosion, June 26, 1964 - The incident helped lead to the creation of the 1974 U.S. Transportation Safety Act.

PA SHPO

Nominating Places of Worship and Burial Sites

Burial sites for an individual or community are generally not considered eligible for a marker as persons should be commemorated where they lived or where their actions made an impact. These locations must be able to demonstrate statewide or national significance, as these sites are typically hyper localized. In addition to considering the questions for nominating a place, these sites must also consider the following:

Places of worship may be recommended for approval only if the nomination proves one of the following:

- the first establishment of a denomination
- initiated significant changes in religious doctrine or philosophy
- architectural or artistic distinction
- Example: Mother Bethel A.M.E. Church, the mother church of the African Methodist Episcopal denomination, founded 1787.

Burial sites may be recommended for approval only if the nomination proves one of the following:

- architectural, landscape, or artistic distinction
- association with a significant event
- Example: Laurel Hill Cemetery designed by Scottish architect John Notman, major rural cemetery that offered a romantic alternative to the crowded urban environment, with rolling landscape, horticultural plantings, and eclectic architecture.

Nominating an Archaeological Site

To be considered for a marker, an archaeological site must recognize more than a location of material remains. Nominations based solely on the archaeological excavations without documenting the significance of the people connected to the site are unlikely to be approved. The significance of the site should clearly explain the cultural, historical, and/or spiritual importance of the people, community, tribe, or nation who occupied or used the area. Consider the following:

- How does the site contribute to our understanding of human history or prehistory?
- What cultural practices, traditions, or belief systems are represented by the site?
- How does the site convey human activity through events, processes, institutions, design, construction, settlement, migration, ideals, beliefs, or lifeways?
- Is the site significant to a particular community, tribe, or nation beyond its archaeological value alone?
- Example: Pandenarium: Arriving in November 1854, 63 African Americans settled an agricultural community north of Indian Run. Freed through manumission by Va. plantation owner Dr. Charles Everett, many of these formerly enslaved men and women worked to purchase the freedom of others. Abolitionist-built houses on land provided by Everett awaited them. Archaeological investigations have uncovered their stories of hard-fought freedom, collaboration, and perseverance.

A Note on Nominations Related to Native American History

Nominations that relate to Native American history, culture, or heritage will be reviewed in consultation with federally recognized Native American tribes and Tribal Nations that have ancestral and continuing cultural and historical ties to Pennsylvania. This review is intended to ensure cultural accuracy, respect, and appropriateness, and to support the participation of affiliated tribes in the interpretation of their history and heritage.

Subjects Unlikely to Be Approved

The Panel and Commission is not supportive of nominations that are based solely on:

- Sensationalism, durability, or longevity
- Philanthropy or benevolence
- Superlatives, such as “first,” “oldest,” “most/least,” etc., unless unquestionably provable and also of statewide impact
- Commemoration of those who died, such as members of the military or victims of a crime or tragedy
- Modern commercial motivation, such as promoting a business, even if educational or benevolent in nature. Longstanding organizations may be considered for historical, but not modern, accomplishments.
